Celebrates 100th Anniversary Of Co-Education

A Century Ago Tomorrow Women Were First Admitted In Colleges

Tomorrow, Oct. 8, there will be celebrated with fitting ceremony at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, the one hundredth anniversary of the matriculation of the first women students in a collegiate institution or, in other words, the beginning of co-education in America. The first college for men, Harvard, had been founded in 1636, but no adequate provision had been made for even the secondary education of women until 1837. Since that date more than five hundred and seventy colleges have admitted women to courses and more than a million young women have received the B. A. degree. It is such a commonplace for young women today to attend co-educational colleges that few realize what an unheard of thing it was 100 years ago.

Debate Squad Plans to Attend National Tourney

Hopes to Sponsor Inter-Collegiate Meet and Bring Teams
Here

A tentative schedule for debate activities was announced yesterday by Dr. Joseph P. Kelly, head of the department of speech and debate coach. In all probability, the College will be represented in the Pi Kappa Delta national forensic tournament in Topeka, Kas., Mar. 16 to 21.

Besides the Topeka meet, present plans include a practice tournament at Kirkville, Dec. 3 and 4, and the Missouri State tournament at Columbia. The date for the state tourney has not been definitely set, but such arrangements are expected to be made this month.

For the last two years the College has been host to a practice inter-collegiate tournament. Plans are being made for one again this season. It will probably be early in January.

Dr. Kelly states that every effort will be made to bring interesting teams to the campus for student audiences. However, since the trend is toward tournament debating, very few schools have traveling teams.

Only two women and one man with any college debate experience remain on the squad. They are Gara Williams, Maryville, who competed in the last national tournament in Houston, Tex.; Helen Estep, Union Star; and P. O. Nystrand, Pickering, both of whom are experienced in state inter-collegiate speaking. At present four other women and seven men make up the remainder of the squad. They are Virginia Gibson, St. Joseph; Maxine Prewitt, Edgerton; Evelyn Euritt, Mount Ayr, Ia.; Dorothy Matter, Osborn; and Stuart Queen, St. Louis; Jean Schneider, Stanberry; Kenneth Harper, Pickering; Harold Brueggeman, Frank Strong, Don Mozingo, and Bill Hutchinson of Maryville; and Edgar Abbott, Union Star.

CHORAL READING OFFERED

Choral reading is being inaugurated in the first three grades of training school this fall under the supervision of the department of speech.

S. T. C. Eleven Will Attempt To Wrest Engraved Cane From Kirkville Bulldogs

INJURIES RIDDLE MARYVILLE

Steeped in tradition, the season's battle of battles will be fought tomorrow night, when the Kirkville Bulldogs meet the Bearcats on the local gridiron, starting at 7:45 o'clock.

In 1927, a piece of wood was cut on the farm of the president of Kirkville, and presented to Maryville, where a beautiful cane was made of it in the industrial arts department. On this cane are engraved the scores of previous Kirkville-Maryville games. Tradition says that the winning team shall keep the cane during the year. Only once in the last ten years has Maryville had the cane. The Kirkville reign of terror under Don Faurot turned back the Bearcats, year after year, usually depriving them of the conference leaders and various committees to serve for the ensuing year. Editors of the Northwest Missourian, College weekly newspaper, were also approved at the meeting, an account of which appears in another place in this paper.

Bearcats Lose Close Game to Fremont College Eleven

Midland College Completes Long Pass to Defeat College Varsity, 6-0

A one touchdown defeat, bruises and limps were the only things the Bearcats were able to bring back from Midland College after their tangle Friday night. Coach Ryland Milner is offering no alibis, but just the same the touchdown was a tough break and the injuries were tough luck.

The game, according to statistics, was rather close all the way through. Midland gained 134 yards from scrimmage and the three passes they completed netted them 57 yards. Maryville gained 125 yards from scrimmage and completed two passes for 25 yards.

Two times during the game the Midland team forced their way to a point within ten yards of the Maryville goal, but were unable to get the ball across.

In the fourth quarter Smagacz blocked a Maryville punt on the Bearcat's 34 yard line. Harrier passed to Bundegaard for the entire distance to give Midland the victory.

Injuries received in the Nebraska game may prove a serious hindrance in the game with Kirkville this Friday night. John Zuchowski, Walter Moore, and Marion Rogers were injured in the second quarter of the game. Zuchowski received a badly bruised leg; Moore a rib injury and Rogers' old injury forced him to leave the game at the half.

Bearcats "Skunks" Show Up Well In Wentworth Game

Maryville "B" Team Defeats Cadets at Lexington Last Week by Score of 21-14

Pushing over a touchdown in each of the first three quarters, and converting each point after touchdown, the local "B" team won over Wentworth Military Academy, 21 to 14, last Friday night, at Lexington.

Using many passes and "razzle-dazzle" plays, the reserves lead throughout. The first score after two long passes, Paisley to Walker, and Paisley to Sipes, placing the ball within the ten yard-line from where Reital scored on the fourth down.

In the second period, Yates, Maryville fullback, raced 50 yards on a fake kick to the Wentworth 25-yard line, from where a sustained drive pushed the ball across with Paisley carrying the ball.

Early in the third quarter, Reital circled end for 20 yards to score standing up.

With Reital kicking from placement all three attempts for point after touchdown were good.

Wentworth scored in the second and third quarters, but after the "B" team's tallies in the same period. Long runs after lateral passes put the Cadets in position to drive across both touchdowns.

The play of Walker, Paisley, Reital, Curtis and Kruse was outstanding on the Maryville team. These men will probably see service against Kirkville when the Varsity meets that team tomorrow night.

HERE'S the DOPE

With the football season in its third week, and early season tune-up games over, conference play swings into action with Kirkville here, and Springfield at Cape Girardeau this week. Conference teams, after a good record the first week, lost prestige last week by dropping three, winning two, and tying one.

Kirkville took a sound beating from Missouri "B" last Friday, 32 to 0. The Tiger reserves completed eleven of fifteen attempted passes to score four of their five touchdowns. Does that mean passes next Friday night? It should.

Our Bearcats dropped a hard-luck contest to Midland of Fremont, Nebr., 6 to 0, losing on a break in the last quarter.

What happens when a Bearcat battles a Bulldog. Listen my friends—next Friday night around ten bells Bulldogs will be worth ten cents a gross—I hope, I hope, I hope.

In another conference tilt, it's Springfield at Cape Girardeau. With two wins in as many starts, Cape is favored by two touchdowns. A 7-7 tie for Springfield against Central last week would indicate a healthier football condition at Springfield, but Cape is too strong to allow the Bears to completely recover.

Cape Girardeau beat Carbondale teachers 14 to 0, last week. Two weeks ago Rolla romped over Carbondale, 27 to 0. So what? That indicates Rolla is stronger than Cape—on paper. But who ever saw a football game played on paper?

The Mules at Warrensburg are braying loud and long this week after an impressive 14 to 0 victory over strong Kansas Wesleyan. Some called it an upset, but those Mules must not be underrated. They dominated play throughout and scored on end sweeps by Brown and Baptist.

Warrensburg should win handily over Central this week-end in another non-conference game.

The Rolla Miners were outclassed by St. Louis U. last week, 32 to 6. They battled courageously to hold the dynamite-laden Billikens to 6 to 0 at the half, but wilted under driving power in the last period.

The Miners have an open date this week, and they probably need it.

Athletic Committee Abolishes Passes

All complimentary tickets to athletic events at the College have been withdrawn. This move came in an effort to balance the budget of the athletic department, according to an announcement this week by the athletic committee of the College.

Previously, members of the "M" club paid one dollar for a ticket to all sports events, with the money going to the club treasury. Also, many passes were issued to parents of players, teachers, and members of the board of regents. "M" club tickets for admission to all events will now cost $4.50, payable at the office of Mr. Davis.

The action was taken only after much consideration and study of conditions in other colleges. Most universities issue very few passes. The committee believes the move will work to the satisfaction of everybody involved.

Members of the athletic committee are: H. R. Dieterich, chairman; E. A. Davis, J. P. Kelly, Sterling Surrey, T. H. Cook, Norval Sayler, W. G. Shover, and Roy Ferguson, all members of the College faculty.

Season's Battle of Battles Tomorrow

title. Only in 1931, when Maryville won, 7 to 0, and copped the football crown, has the College had the cane.

This year, however, football at Kirkville is said to be different from what it was. Don Faurot is gone as coach, being replaced by brother, Fred Faurot. Little material was left by brother Don. So far this season the Bulldogs have an unimpressive win over Moberly Junior College, and a humiliating defeat at the hands of Missouri "B".

Maryville's record this season is a tie and a loss against Nebraska college elevens. Lack of scoring power, and inability to make their "breaks" are causing Coaches Milner and Stalcup no little worry.

Injuries have riddled the Maryville squad the last week. Although only one man, Bob Rogers, is definitely out, several may see only limited service. Walter Moore, regular back, was not in uniform early in the week because of a rib injury. French, Brewer, Bernau, other backs, although out for practice are staying out of heavy scrimmage, guarding leg injuries. Marion Rogers, regular guard, agitated an old injury in the Midland game, making it doubtful whether he will see service.

With the injured men on the sidelines, Coach Milner has been driving his charges hard all week in an attempt to speed up the running attack. Inability to put the same team on the practice field daily has made perfection of fake reverses and trick plays, around which the offense is built very difficult.

Kirkville boasts a pony backfield and a big line headed by Captain Schivengel, all conference tackle. The offense is built around Miller, only remaining member of Kirkville's dazzling backfield last year. He runs, kicks, and passes, and probably will play a lot of football against the Bearcats. The formations and shifts from which Kirkville

Students Discuss Various Sides of College Life

John Zuchowski, Nystrand, and P. O. Nystrand, Governmental, Intellectual Life

Students were given by Lois McGarvey, Rock Port; P. O. Nystrand, Nystrand, and John Zuchowski, St. Louis, in assembly at the College, Monday.

McGarvey, social chairman, discussed "Social Life in Our College." Several reasons why students should take part in social activities of the College were discussed. "The most important reason is that students in our College are the best representatives of the people in our country. They have to improve themselves intellectually and socially. They should reflect the broadening influence of the times."

McGarvey mentioned many of the developing social life. Some of the important ones are: Varsity, Residence Hall organization, fraternities and two fraternal organizations such as Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A., professional organizations which are athletic, pep squads.

The social committee works hand in hand with the faculty in preparing a program for the year that will be most beneficial to the students," concluded the speaker.

Intellectual life is the real life of the college, the important side," P. O. Nystrand told the students.

Discussing some of the important problems being confronted today, Nystrand mentioned crime, human rights, and property rights.

Nystrand said in regard to the problems today we are solving the question of war and peace.

"This college is a great institution," he stated. "The reason that the state is spending so much money on it is not only because it requires good teachers but that it realizes that the state and nation depend upon the scholars of today for leadership. The scholar is the man who leads the way." In defining a scholar, he said, "The scholar is a man who knows that knowledge is based on facts but facts, and not only is the scholar the man whose knowledge is based upon facts but he is the man who will use his knowledge for the betterment of man."

John Zuchowski, president of the Student Senate, spoke on "Student Government in Our College." His purpose was to show the students that the government of our college is democratic and that our college is doing things to carry out the recommendations of the National Student Federation of America and similar organizations.

The student president mentioned a problem which had been presented to the Senate. Among these was the question as to whether the system should be adopted, the system of equality of women's participation in student government.

Including the speaker said, "The college should be a place where we can develop a harmonious relationship and to prepare to

SURREY WRITES ARTICLE

An article on "The Union Goes to College," by Mr. Sterling Surrey of the College department of commerce and business administration, appears in the August issue of the Agency Bulletin Magazine.

Home Ec. Dept. To Start Practice Home Fall Quarter

A dream of the home economics department is being realized. The College has purchased the house just south of the dormitory and has put it under the direction of Miss Hettie M. Anthony and the home economics department. It is to be used as a practice house. Beginning with the winter quarter four girls will live here with Miss June Cozine as home advisor.

The purchase of the house furnishes an excellent project for the department. Already the girls are beginning plans for remodeling and furnishing. The furnishing will be done on the basis of a given income. Both the furnishing and remodeling, which will include entire decoration, will provide opportunity to correlate fine and industrial arts with the home economics program. The class on food preservation has begun canning of fruits and vegetables to be used in the house. There will be special cooperation between the girls living in the house and the home management classes, if not an actual incorporation of the two.

The house will be carried out entirely on the practice house plan. The girls living there will do their own cooking and housekeeping, special phases of the home management being worked out by regularly assigned girls who live there. Residence in a practice house is a requirement for vocational home economics teachers and credit will be given for such residence here. The house has been worked out on a basis which makes living there moderately priced, which is a distinct advantage over such houses at other schools and universities.

The whole project will be worked out on a developmental plan. Eventually the lawn will be landscaped. Plans are now being made to include an herb garden, a popular feature of residential landscaping.

Sometime in the future it may be possible for more than four girls to live in the house. The department also hopes to be able to take a child about six months old to live in the house. This would of course provide actual problems of child feeding and clothing. When the child reached school age it would be put in a private home for adoption.

The plans as a whole are as yet somewhat tentative, but with careful working out, the house will doubtless prove a drawing card to the College.

Dieterich Speaks At School Meeting

Mr. Herbert R. Dieterich, principal of the College high school, attended the third annual meeting of the Missouri Secondary School Principals held October 1 and 2 at Columbia.

FORMER STUDENT NOW IN MARYLAND SCHOOLS

Recent word received from friends of Chas. F. Hurley, former student of the College, informs that he is employed at East New Market, Maryland, in the consolidated schools as principal. His salary is $1300.00 a year.

Mr. Hurley states that insurance compensation is in vogue in Maryland which takes about 4 per cent of his salary and returns him approximately $100 per month in case of illness.

Another feature of the Maryland schools according to his letter, is tenure of office. A teacher who gives satisfactory service will be retained indefinitely, and cannot be removed except for good cause and after trial.

Maryland employs the county unit school system, with the county superintendent of all schools in the county and with the board of directors governing all schools. Mr. Hurley's work is teaching social science and coaching.

O'Neillian Club Meets Last Week

At a meeting of the old and prospective new members of the O'Neillian dramatics club held at the College Thursday evening, Dr. J. P. Kelly, head of the speech department, explained the aims of the club for the coming year to over forty students interested in different phases of dramatics.

After explaining the activities of the club last year, which included several one-act plays, a three-act play, a radio broadcast, and various trips to surrounding towns to appear in dramatic productions, Dr. Kelly explained that the members of the club would be divided into three groups for the dramatic productions of the coming year. The club will produce a serious and a humorous three-act play, several one-act plays, will give one over the radio if possible and will consider producing one of Shakespeare's plays next spring.

The officers for the coming year are Beulah Frerichs, Fairfax, president; Bill Hutchinson, Maryville, vice-president; and Helen Leet, Maryville, secretary-treasurer.

The regular meetings of the club will be held in Social Hall the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

WE STEP INTO THE M. I. A. A.

The College Bearcats make their debut for this season in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association tomorrow night when they will be hosts to the Bulldogs of Northeast Missouri State Teachers College at Kirksville. The Bearcat-Bulldog game is always, as far as the student body here is concerned, the BIG game of the season, and is the one that, if won, will make the Bearcat's season complete, regardless of how the other games come out. At least that is the opinion of some persons in the College.

There is just a little added desire on the part of the Bearcats for winning the Kirksville game each year. For the past ten years, the Maryville and Kirksville schools have had a tradition of presenting a cane to the team winning the game—the cane being from the farm of an ex-president of the college in Kirksville and being made in the industrial arts department here, and containing all the scores of past Bearcat-Bulldog games. The Kirksville school has been in possession of the cane since 1932, and, incidentally, the Bearcats' victory over the Bulldogs in 1931, was the last Kirksville defeat until last year.

It is hoped that the Bearcats will step into the M. I. A. A. race tomorrow night in the best of condition and with a great amount of determination to win the game, and thereby wrest the traditional cane from our ancient friendly rival, Kirksville.

MUSSOLINI AND HITLER

For the last few days the press has rather abandoned the war situation in Spain and the Orient to take a look at Mussolini's visit to Der Fuehrer Hitler.

This mission of Mussolini's has been accompanied by much fanfare and a great deal of talk and declaration of peace. The two principals in this conference, however, have been the two most important players on the diplomatic chessboard for some time.

This meeting was for the purpose of openly declaring that peace will reign in the world, that is, as far as Germany and Italy are concerned. It is rather a puzzle how Hitler and Mussolini can declare peace when they have been instrumental in creating one of the most serious situations in Europe since 1914.

The Nazi organization took advantage of their distinguished visitor's presence to try to impress him with the power of the aforesaid organization. A great display of military and man power was put on for Mussolini's special benefit.

In speeches, given before a great crowd of Nazis, Hitler and Mussolini declared that Germany and Italy had two of the greatest democracies in the world today. Taking everything into consideration, one wonders if those two self-imposed dictators really know or care what justice or democracy are.

No matter what statesmen say about the probability of war, this country or any other country is not safe from war. Nor will they be safe until Hitler, and Mussolini and others like them are completely eliminated from the governmental scheme of the countries of the world.

THEY WON'T BITE YOU

Every year we are reminded of another "same old story"—that of caring for chaperones at a social function. The subject was brought to mind on Walk Out Day when the all-school dance was held in the West Library on Tuesday evening of last week.

In attendance at the dance were possibly two or three hundred students, and several faculty members who acted in the capacities of chaperones. But from the appearance of things during the course of the dance, the only persons, in the minds of most of the students, who attended the dance were those two or three hundred students. The faculty members, for the most part, were ignored—or, at least, little attention was paid them.

It should be remembered that when faculty members act as sponsors of a social event, they should be the persons who receive the greatest amount of consideration—not the students who attend. In the first place, chaperones should be asked to attend the dance an entire school week before the social event takes place. Then, on the day of the affair, the chaperones should be properly escorted and transported by students to the place of the affair, and back home again, instead of students leaving that all up to the faculty members. Then, during the course of the social event, the chaperones should be either provided with dancing partners or "chatting" partners.

Faculty members acting in the capacity of chaperones are only human—just like students. Suppose that a student was placed in the place of a faculty chaperone, came to the dance as best he could, returned home in the same manner, and, most important of all, was almost totally ignored during the course of the affair. Would a student be somewhat resentful? He most certainly would. The same is true of faculty sponsors; at least they would feel as if they were not really wanted at the affair, but that the sponsors of the dance had to have a chaperone, so they just called on them.

Each and every student in the College—and especially members of organizations sponsoring a social affair—should see that the faculty members are well provided for at dances, teas, dinners, or any other event that might take place. By all means, we as students should speak with—or at least to—the chaperones present at one of our affairs, thereby making them feel that their presences ARE wanted and that we are honored by those presences. So speak with the chaperones, they won't bite you—in fact, they will appreciate it.

CAMPUS COMMENT

Now that "rush" week is over, members of fraternities and sororities can once more settle down to the routine of school work and individual business transactions.

For the information of the students who were not in school during the summer quarter and the students who have entered the portals of the College for the first time this year, this beautiful edifice in which you will have most of your classes is the Administration building of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College. True, it is not the same as was left by most of the students last spring, for it has taken on an aesthetic and more agreeable appearance.

All summer long workmen have been employed at the College in painting the interior of the Administration building. The bright cheery colors of tan and brown on the walls blend in most pleasingly with the deep red of the floors. This, indeed, is an improvement over the appearance of the interior of the building last year in the old colors of green and white.

The change in appearance was, of course, made for the benefit of the students here, and it is hoped and expected of the men and women in the College that they will cooperate in maintaining the beautiful appearance of the Administration building.

You can't teach anyone anything that he or she does not want to learn. It's an old saying that still holds good. CONSERVATION EDUCATION PROMOTED BY CONFERENCE

The first national conference on conservation education held by a federal agency, or perhaps, by any organization, was that called by Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker. This indicates something of the significance of conservation education in the national program of conservation of natural resources now under way, as well as the importance of the introduction of conservation into the school's program of studies, Commissioner Studebaker emphasized.

The importance attached to the conference is demonstrated also by the conference personnel which included officials of the Federal government agencies in Washington, state education executives, specialists in education and conservation from universities and colleges, and officers of lay organizations working in the interests of conservation. Representatives came from all parts of the country, as far west as Seattle, as far east as New York, as far south as Tennessee, as far north as Minnesota.

Opened by Chapman

The conference was opened by an address of welcome from Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Oscar L. Chapman, representing the Department of the Interior, with Commissioner Studebaker presiding. Com-

Special Events

Y.W.C.A. Stage Dinner

A group of young men and members of the College and Y.W.C.A. went out on a hayrack last Wednesday night, Sept. 29, when they had a picnic about two miles northwest of the city on hayracks for a picnic.

Starting out for some real fun, the "Bulldogs" with two Y.M.C.A. boys and two girls, drove the two racks to the Country Club where a dinner was being held. There they journeyed on for about a mile and a half where they drove into a farm-land and back into a grove where marshmallows were as chaperon for the group, which numbered over one fifteenth of the total enrollment at the College. Dwight Dorrough was called to open the gates and due to the darkness he opened a gate into a small pen which held a number of cattle. But with the aid of Robert Taylor and the kindness of Alex Sawyer, the event was soon allayed and the group went on out to the grove where a large campfire was built.

An unusually large number of boys and girls turned out for the hayrack ride, and it is believed that the new freshmen members will be a decided asset to Young Men's and Young Men's Christian Association.

Agriculture Dept. Has Full Program

The agriculture department under the direction of Mr. R. T. Wright, has an interesting schedule planned for students taking this subject during the coming college term.

Last fall the College purchased four calves, two Angus and two Shorthorn. The calves weighed approximately 400 pounds each. One calf was sold and the other three were kept for livestock classes and for the calf judging teams.

These animals were fed for 10 months and just recently were sold. They brought $17, which was the top market price for the day of the sale.

The agriculture 41 class, under Mr. Wright, is studying, at the present, the various cuts and by-products of meat.

This agriculture class plans to attend the American Royal Livestock Show, to be held in Kansas City in the near future. They will enter in the division of animal husbandry.

The cereal crops class, directed by Dr. Frank Horsfall has selected seed corn from the College farm for planting next spring. They have also planted several plots of hybrid wheat for class study.

Between 40 and 50 varieties of hybrid corn were planted here this spring for experimentation. These various plots of corn and their yield will be compared to that planted in other sections of the country at the same time. This corn will be used in class work also.

The results of the Maryville corn tests for 1936 are unusual in indicating an average advantage of station hybrids over commercial varieties and over most commercial hybrids.

FAULTY DIET SUGGESTED AS WAR JITTERS CAUSE

Cambridge, Mass.—(ACP)—A good part of the world's war jitters can be blamed on faulty diet, the international food conference at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was told.

Lewis W. Waters, food technician, foresaw doom for the "wallflower" and a race of healthier, less jittery people as a result of food technology.

Declaring surveys showed American college boys and girls today were taller and stronger than their parents at similar ages, Waters said it must be attributed at least partly to "better and more varied foods."

Faculty Members Attend Dedication

Several of the College faculty attended the dedication Sunday of the 40-acre park owned and sponsored by the Carroll County Teachers Association, at Mandeville, Mo.

The tract is located in a rough, wooded part of the county. The land was purchased by the teachers of Carroll county and a project is now being developed which is designed to set up a concrete example in soil and forest conservation.

Celebrates 100th Co-Ed Anniversary

Oberlin included thirty young men and four young women. The four were Mary Hosford of Vermont, Caroline Mary Rudd of Connecticut, Elizabeth Prall and Mary Fletcher Kellogg of New York. Four years later the first three graduated, and Mary Fletcher Kellogg whose family had moved to Louisiana, returned to marry a classmate, James Harris Fairchild, who later became Oberlin's third president.

Courses Studied

The courses which these young women followed, in common with the young men, was equivalent to that offered at the best eastern colleges and included four years of Greek, three years of Latin, two years of Hebrew, two years of mathematics, four years of English composition, natural science, moral philosophy, political economy, logic and rhetoric, astronomy and chemistry, anatomy and evidences of religion. On all courses examinations were taken before graduation. The young women were members of the Moral Reform club and of the musical club.

The circular sent out in 1835 soliciting students said: "Young ladies of good minds, unblemished morals, and respectable attainments, are received into this department and placed under the superintendence of a judicious lady whose duty it is to correct their habits and mould the female character. They board at the public table, and perform the labor of the steward's department, together with the washing, ironing, and much of the sewing of the students. They attend recitations with young gentlemen in all departments. Their rooms are entirely separate from those of the other sex, and no calls or visits in their respective apartments are at all permitted."

"Wild Fanaticism"

In 1837 a pamphlet was published accusing the Oberlin leaders of "wild fanaticism" and declaring that "joint education" was very similar to free love. Those who were not opposed were skeptical, and hence enthusiastic approval was noteworthy. In 1938 William Woodbridge wrote about Oberlin to the "American Annals of Education" and said: "There are many things in regard to this institution to render it interesting to every friend of education. Its moral tone and standing—its broad temperance principles—its banner of freedom—the large benevolence it inculcates and encourages, and the habits of industry, in both sexes, which it enjoins and secures, give it a prominence in the view of the Christian philanthropist, which few literary or religious institutions can claim."

"But its most interesting feature is the uniting of the sexes in a course of liberal study, and the unexpected results which have followed. Many good men among us, when they heard that males and females were to recite together—did not fail to predict a failure. Yet the institution has flourished, and the experiment is unequivocally successful. We consider it now fully established, that the sexes may be educated together."

Important Discovery

"This discovery is one of the most important ever made. The benefits which are likely to flow from it are immense. Woman is to be free. The hour of her emancipation is at hand. Daughter of America rejoice!"

Oberlin is to be congratulated upon the notable program to commemorate this discovery that the "feminine mind was not incapable of higher pursuits of learning." The Centennial, in a wider sense, belongs so much to the whole college world that everywhere recognition is being made of the occasion. To Oberlin belongs the distinction of being the alma mater of such men as Robert Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago and Rosalind Millikan, Nobel prize winner in physics; but to Oberlin also the distinction of graduating Atkins, one of the founders of Wellesley College, Helen Shafer, former president of Wellesley, and Kate Adams, president of the College of Notre Dame, and others who have served with power and wisdom.

and social development of American people for good. His experiments in employing color and contrast in his interpretations of the works of great masters are to the ears sometimes startling and but to the music world, no suggestion to reject his conception has been voiced, but always accepted their true value.

Fortunately, the College succeeded in securing this internationally famous and striking organization—there is every reason to believe that the brilliant performance to be given here will do here the remarkable popular has achieved and received where it has appeared on its coast-to-coast, nation-wide international tour.

Missourian Editors Chosen Last Week of Catholic students on the campus, and is a member of the Student Senate, a representative to that group from the junior class.

William Evans, Sheridan, was elected to the position of sports editor of The Northwest Missourian. Evans has handled practically all of the sports items that have appeared in the paper this fall, and with a great deal of high school experience on a newspaper to his credit, he should prove an efficient sports editor.

Doris Dee Hiles, Burlington Junction, was approved as society editor of The Missourian. During the last school year and so far this fall, Doris has contributed many items for the society columns of the paper. She is popular on the campus and should prove to be worthy of the society editor's position.

Forty-one students of the College have expressed their desire to contribute to the paper for the ensuing year. Press meetings are held each Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Social Hall.

The Northwest Missourian will be issued every Thursday at eleven o'clock and placed on a stand in front of the news-office where each student may get his copy.

Beginning this week and continuing throughout the year the Northwest Missourian in collaboration with the Collegiate Digest is adding a rotogravure section to the eight printed pages.

The members of the Journalism Club meet every Thursday afternoon at 4:00 in Social Hall to receive assignments for next week's edition of the paper.
